

Seasons Trout in the Classroom Release Day

Since November, Seasons have been raising Brook Trout in the 55 gallon aquarium just outside our room. During these months, they've transformed from the eyed-egg stage in early November to alevins (small fish attached to a yolk sac) in December, and finally 1-3 inch fingerlings. Our final experience with the trout involved traveling to the Unami Creek Watershed (Ridge Valley Creek) to release 31 Brook Trout. We met with Officer Chase Rhoades from the Pennsylvania Fish and Boat Commission and learned about fly fishing from Tom Smith of Perk Valley Trout Unlimited. Our fish will now swim freely and live on their own in this high quality trout stream.
